

APEUni Write Essay Template

Template:

Nowadays, whether ... <topic issue> has sparked a heated debate and drawn public attention. Some people are firmly convinced that ... <viewpoint A>, while others argue that ... <viewpoint B>. After thorough consideration of all relevant factors, I believe that ... <your opinion>.

First and foremost, when viewed from the ... <social / political / environmental / financial / cultural / etc.> perspective, it is evident that ... <your opinion>. Although the potentially positive/negative impacts of ... <topic phrase> must be taken into account, I still reckon that ... <topic phrase> has/have in many ways harmed/benefited us. For example, a prominent scientist once stated that ... <your reason>. It is thus clearly shown that ... <your opinion>.

Additionally, another ... <social / political / environmental / financial / cultural / etc.> factor should also be taken into account in this situation. As far as society is concerned, the ultimate aim of ... <topic phrase> is to ... <do sth>. For instance, a recent article published in The Economist revealed that ... <your reason>. Undoubtedly, this is a clear indication that ... <your opinion>.

In conclusion, due to the reasons outlined above, I have a strong belief that ... <your opinion>. In order to move things forward, all parties involved must make a concerted effort to communicate and start changing. With all our efforts, we can certainly make this world a much better place to live.

Tips in using:

1. You can use this same template for all essay questions
2. Use academic expressions (Do not use idioms / contractions)
3. More words ≠ more marks (Good: 200 – 300 words)

Essay Type 1:

Agree or disagree question

Essay Question:

It is important to preserve the beautiful buildings of the past, even if it will be expensive to do so. To what extent do you agree or disagree with it?

Sample Answer:

Nowadays, whether the beautiful buildings of the past deserve to be preserved at any cost has sparked a heated debate and drawn public attention. Some people are firmly convinced that they are of great value to us, while others argue that preserving these buildings is a waste of human resources. After thorough consideration of all relevant factors, I believe that we should preserve these old buildings, no matter the cost.

First and foremost, when viewed from the educational perspective, it is evident that these buildings should be carefully protected. Although the potentially negative impacts of these buildings must be taken into account, I still reckon that these precious buildings have in many ways benefited us. For example, a prominent scientist once stated that children can gain more archeological knowledge when visiting these buildings. It is thus clearly shown that it is worthy to preserve the ancient buildings.

Additionally, another cultural factor should also be taken into account in this situation. As far as society is concerned, the ultimate aim of these buildings is to remind us of human history. For instance, a recent article published in The Economist revealed that many historic facts can be discovered from these old buildings. Undoubtedly, this is a clear indication that we need to make an effort to protect them.

In conclusion, due to the reasons outlined above, I have a strong belief that we must preserve the valuable buildings of the past. In order to move things forward, all parties involved must make a concerted effort to communicate and start changing. With all our efforts, we can certainly make this world a much better place to live.

(274 words)

Essay Type 2:

Open question

Essay Question:

What are the advantages of cheaper public transportation?

Sample Answer:

Nowadays, the advantages of cheaper public transportation have sparked a heated debate and drawn public attention. Some people are firmly convinced that the advantage is mainly the reduction of air pollution, while others argue that it also leads to better traffic conditions. After thorough consideration of all relevant factors, I believe that cheaper public transportation results in less air pollution and fewer traffic jams.

First and foremost, when viewed from the environmental perspective, it is evident that cheaper public transportation causes less air pollution. Although the potentially negative impacts of cheaper public transportation must be taken into account, I still reckon that public transportation has in many ways benefited us. For example, a prominent scientist once stated that people will travel more by public transportation instead of private cars when public transportation becomes cheaper, and this reduces air pollution. It is thus clearly shown that one advantage of cheaper public transportation is the reduction of air pollution.

Additionally, another social factor should also be taken into account in this situation. As far as society is concerned, the ultimate aim of public transportation is to make our life more convenient. For instance, a recent article published in The Economist revealed that the problem of traffic jams can be significantly alleviated when people choose cheaper public transportation. Undoubtedly, this is a clear indication that another advantage of cheaper public transportation is fewer traffic jams.

In conclusion, due to the reasons outlined above, I have a strong belief that the advantages of cheaper public transportation are less air pollution and fewer traffic jams. In order to move things forward, all parties involved must make a concerted effort to communicate and start changing. With all our efforts, we can certainly make this world a much better place to live.
(295 words)

Essay Type 3:

Dual questions

Essay Question:

Communication has changed significantly in the last 10 years. Discuss the positive and negative impacts of this change.

Sample Answer:

Nowadays, whether the change in communication has positive or negative impacts has sparked a heated debate and drawn public attention. Some people are firmly convinced that such change has enormously enriched our lives, while others argue that it has an adverse effect on society. After thorough consideration of all relevant factors, I believe that the change in communication has a positive influence as well as a negative one on our lives.

First and foremost, when viewed from the financial perspective, it is evident that electronic communication has become much cheaper than before. Although the potentially negative impacts of electronic communication must be taken into account, I still reckon that the change has in many ways benefited us. For example, a prominent scientist once stated that communication between distant parties has become more convenient and affordable. It is thus clearly shown that the change to electronic communication has benefited us hugely in making long-distance communication more affordable.

Additionally, another social factor should also be taken into account in this situation. As far as society is concerned, the ultimate aim of communication is to help people build positive relationships. For instance, a recent article published in The Economist revealed that technology has reduced the amount of face-to-face interaction, which is the most effective way of building a strong relationship. Undoubtedly, this is a clear indication that the change in communication has hindered us from building close relationships with others.

In conclusion, due to the reasons outlined above, I have a strong belief that the change in communication has both positive and negative effects on us. In order to move things forward, all parties involved must make a concerted effort to communicate and start changing. (282 words)